

BOWEN H. 'BUZZ' MC COY

Buzz Mc Coy was born in San Francisco and attended Stanford University, graduating with a degree in economics. He later went on to Harvard Business School, where he received his M.B.A.

Mr. Mc Coy served in Korea in the United States Army, Intelligence Branch, and received the Department of Army Commendation Medal. He began working for Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. in 1962. He was an owner of the firm for twenty years, and he directed Morgan Stanley's real estate finance activities for 13 years and its West Coast activities for five years. In 1990 he retired, and he presently spends his time as a real estate and business counselor, an educator and a philanthropist.

Mr. McCoy teaches courses on business ethics, as well as Christian theology and literature, at graduate business schools as well as churches and seminaries. He has served as Executive-in-Residence at both the Stanford and Notre Dame Graduate Schools of Business; and as Adjunct Professor, Pacific School of Religion, UCLA Anderson School of Management and the Graduate Real Estate Program at USC. He has published seventy-five magazine articles on the subjects of business ethics or real estate finance, and he is currently publishing two books: "The Dynamics of Real Estate Capital Markets: A Practitioner's Perspective" (Urban Land Institute, 2006) and "Living Into Leadership: A Journey in Ethics" (Stanford University Press, 2007).

Mr. Mc Coy serves as a Life Trustee for the Urban Land Institute and Past President of the Urban Land Foundation. He is a Past President of the Counselors of Real Estate and a Fellow in the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors. He has served on visiting committees for the Harvard University Graduate School of Design and Harvard Memorial Church. At Stanford University he has served as President of the Stanford Alumni Association, Chairman for the Stanford University Center for Economic Policy Research, member of the Executive Committee of the Hoover Institution and co-chair of their capital campaign, Advisory Council of Stanford Business School and a member of the Board of Stanford Associates. In addition, at Stanford, he has been awarded the Gold Spike and a fifty year service pin for volunteer activities. He is a past Chairman of the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Red Cross, past Chairman of the Hollywood Bowl, Past Chairman of the Medical Ethics Committee at UCLA Medical Center, and member of the Advisory Council to the USC Thornton School of Music. Other organizations in which he has actively participated include: Board of Directors, Y. M. C. A. of Downtown Los Angeles; Trustee, Pacific School of Religion; Harvard Business School 25th Class Reunion; The Board of Pensions, United Presbyterian Church; Advisory Committee, Appalachian Mountain Club; Executive Committee, Trinity Church Center for Ethics and Corporate Policy, N. Y. C.; and Ruling Elder, The First Presbyterian Church of Greenwich, Connecticut.

Mr. Mc Coy has received writing awards from Harvard Business Review and Real Estate Counselor. He has also received professional awards in real estate from the Graduate School of Business, University of Southern California, and the Real Estate Counselors, and in business ethics from the Graduate School of Business, Arizona State University.

Mr. McCoy and his wife Barbara have six children and six grandchildren. They spend as much time as they can at their hiking ranch in Topanga, in the Santa Monica Mountains.
